'Faces Of Talent' Set For Friday

The "Many Faces of Talent", a student-sponsored, student-produced talent show, will be presented Friday at 7 p.m. in the Concert Hall of the Harris Fine Arts Center.

IN CONJUNCTION with the ASBY Culture Office, the talent show puts a cap on a week-long campus search for talent to be used in varied productions throughout the coming school year.

Booths have been set up at several points on campus, a Culture office spokesman said, and students are urged to register for the show Thursday evening, a hootenanny was held in the Wilkinson Center to help promote the show.

Officials of the show had announced that it was going to be held in the Joseph Smith Auditorium at 8:15 p.m. but a change of plans was made.

Thus far, 16 persons have signed up for the hour-and-a-half show, the spokesman said. These include Melva Allred, Joe Johnson, Erasmo, Vicky Wentz and Gordon Mills. Also, the spokesman said, members of the BYU International Folk Dancers and of the school Program Bureau have offered their services.

DURING THE WEEK various skits were held on campus and booths were established in order to aid students in signing up. There were also reports of rewards if a person offered his or her roommate for the production.

Talent presented at the Friday night show will be used during the coming year for student productions, concerts impromptu, skitroom exclusives, off-campus programs, church functions and other university functions.

Prep Publications Workshop

The tenth annual High School Publications Workshop will be held on the Brigham Young University campus Aug. 15-19, according to J. Morris Richards, director of the event.

NEARLY 300 persons are expected to register for the workshop, which will run from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. daily. This is expected to be the biggest turnout for the workshop since its beginning. Several parties and social events will follow the daytime activities.

Five divisions have been organized for the workshop with an outstanding faculty member assigned to each area. In the Letterpress Newspaper division, Merwin G. Fairbanks, instructor of communications at BYU, will serve as supervisor. Mr. Lewis L. Hill, public relations advisor of Holis High School in La Mesa, Calif., will teach the section on duplicated and offset newspapers.

HEBER G. WOLSEY, assistant professor of communications at BYU, will teach advertising and business management. Harold O.

Williams of the Brigham Young High School will teach the class on yearbooks. The photography class will be taught by J. Hestep, chief photographer of the Desert News.

In addition to lectures by the instructors, there will be films, demonstrations, actual production of a newspaper page, and guest lectures by some of the outstanding personalities in the field of journalism in the Utah area.

THE WORKSHOP will be concluded with a Friday night awards banquet.

Registration will take place at Cannon Center on the BYU campus Monday (Aug. 15) at 8 p.m. Participants are expected from California, Utah, Idaho, and parts of the Midwest.

Elder Covey Scheduled For Last Summerside

Steven R. Covey, administrative assistant to President Ernest L. Wilkinson, will deliver the final Summerside lecture Sunday at 9 p.m. in the concert hall of the Harris Fine Arts Center.

REED COLEMAN, co-ordinator for the Sunday evening lecture series, said Elder Covey would deliver his message on "Vision, Discipline and Empathy: A Personal Alliance With the Lord."

Elder Covey's wife, Sandra, will offer a musical selection at the program, Coleman said, and introduce her husband.

SOME 3,500 persons have attended the summer series, Coleman said, with about 500 attendance at each program. "We certainly appreciate the fine response, attitude and attendance this summer," Coleman said, "and we want to publicly thank all our speakers."

Elder Covey has attended BYU, the University of Utah and Harvard University, as well as studying at the University of Denver and various colleges in Ireland. He served a two-year mission to the British Isles for the LDS Church and served from 1962-65 as Mission President in Ireland.

HE HAS BEEN assistant professor of Business Management at BYU and is presently, besides his administrative duties, Director of University Relations.

Also in Ireland, Elder Covey has served as a visiting lecturer at the Belfast College of Technology. Since 1957 he has been associated with the federal government in the Executive Training and National Lecturer programs.

He has five children, Cynthia, Maria, Stephen, Michael Sean and David.

Women students are needed by the AWS office to help plan the Big and Little Sister Reception for fall freshmen.

THE RECEPTION is scheduled for September 16, from 4 to 6 p.m. in the Ballroom of the Wilkinson Center. All freshmen girls in on-campus housing, and many of those off campus, will be assigned "big sisters" who will help them during their freshman year.

Any women students interested in planning the Reception are requested to contact Susan Stum at ext. 2646 from 8 to 5 p.m.

U.S. Team Names 2 BYU Aces

Two Brigham Young University volleyball aces have been announced as members of the United States Men's Volleyball National Team which will represent the United States in the World Volleyball Tournament at Prague, Czechoslovakia next month.

JON STANLEY, a twice-named Collegiate All-American in volleyball, is from San Diego, California. He was also a member of the BYU varsity basketball team.

John Alstrom from Fresno, California has also been named. He also was a Collegiate All-American at BYU.

CANDIDATES for the squad have been working out in Los Angeles under Coach James Coleman. Only 12 of the hopefuls made the traveling team. It included one player each from Dallas, Fresno and San Diego and nine from the Los Angeles area.

The only public appearance of the United States team in America will be a public exhibition at Los Angeles Valley College Saturday at 7:30 p.m., according to Leonard Gibson, chairman of the International Relations Committee of the United States Volleyball Association.

THE EXHIBITION will be the feature of a Los Angeles municipal volleyball program at which representatives of parks and playgrounds will strive for championships in six divisions.

Following this lone appearance, the U.S. team will leave from the Long Beach airport Aug. 16, flying directly to Frankfurt, Germany. Training quarters will be set up at the United States Air Force Base, Wiesbaden.

PLAYERS have been made for exhibition matches against the West German team at Nuremberg Aug. 24, and the East German team in East Berlin Aug. 26.

The World Games themselves will be held Aug. 30 to Sept. 11 in Prague.

Coach James Coleman is a chemistry professor at George Williams College. He was coach of the national team for 1965 Russian series in Canada, a member of USVBA.

BYU Geology Professor Back From Brazilian Field Tour

Dr. Kenneth C. Bullock, professor of geology at Brigham Young University, has recently returned from the 1966 National Science Foundation-sponsored International Geological Field Conference in Brazil.

EACH YEAR for the past six years, 20 to 30 professional geologists have been selected to participate in the conferences which are held in geological classic regions of the world. Previous conferences were held in Great Britain, the Alps and the Italian Peninsula.

During the conference, Dr. Bullock studied the economic deposits of Brazil under the direction of local authorities. The field tour provided participants a chance to compare notes and work with scientific contributors throughout the world.

BYU HAS HAD members of the staff invited to participate in four of the six field tours.

Final Devotional Exam To Be Given August

Creative Student Publishes Pamphlet

A slight, dark-haired English major who is graduating in August has just put a 16-page "broadsheet edition" of "The Fool's Cap" on sale in the BYU Bookstore.

"THE FOOL'S CAP" is a blue-covered, slender pamphlet containing a satirical, parody type of poetry. According to its author, it is a commemorative for all 1966 graduating seniors.

The author is Robert Scott, a versatile and talented individual from Long Beach, California with a love of music and literature and the ambition to do something with his talents.

"SINCE I am an English major and am graduating this August, I thought I ought to do something commemorative," explained Robert.

The energetic author says "The Fool's Cap" is a pilot edition of about 200 issues and is the first of a planned series of three. "I sat down in a week and banged out about 90% of it," he claimed.

His "Foreword" to the volume states, "It was the intention of the Author of this book to produce, commemorative of the grand and auspicious occasion of his receiving of the B.A. (pronounced Bah!), a serious and realistic account of his experiences with University life. Finding this a complete failure, he turned to the only safe and lessane thing left, namely the Truth."

ROBERT has had abundant writing experience, having produced 130 manuscripts of various kinds since last September. "My big success was 'Don Chaotic,' a short story I wrote for the fall issue of the Wye Magazine, he recalled.

"That issue took WAC honors," he continued. He avers that copies of "The Fool's Cap" will be placed in the library and alumni house.

AN EXAMPLE of Robert's satirical poetry is:

Freshmen Bo-Peep

Like all other sheep

Follow Fads where e're they find them.

From Beetles to Cher,

They flock everywhere,

Leaving their brains behind them.

Although all of his poems are his own work, he notes in his introduction, "Being uninhibited by such things as good taste, (the author) has freely dipped, with somewhat sticky fingers, into the rich heritage of the Literary past."

Robert reports that he transferred from Long Beach City Junior College as a physics major, but soon changed to English and completed a four-year program in two years. His double minor is German and Physics.

HE is a professional piano player having appeared at Disneyland, in Las Vegas, and a musical comedian on Concerts Impromptu at BYU.

Despite this, he has had only three months of piano training at the age of 6, and three more months at 12. "However," he noted, "I don't play by ear—I use my fingers."

ROBERT, who is a percussionist also, expects a mission call next month. Meanwhile, he works with the culture office where he wrote all the scripts for Talent Week. In addition, he was writer of one of the student assemblies.

His far-off future includes plans for lectures in literature and music, and eventually starting his own publishing house.

Robert Scott sells a copy of "The Fool's Cap" to Stan Hodge, Daily Universe Editor. The small volume is composed of satirical and parodied poetry and is intended to be commemorative of all 1966 graduating seniors.

Josh Bentley.

Grad Member of Law Review Staff

Josh I. Bentley, a 1965 graduate of Brigham Young University, is appointed as a member of the Law Review staff at the University of Chicago Law School.

Bentley has been attending law school on the BYU-University of Chicago Law School scholarship, and last year was his first law study. His appointment to the staff of the Law Review is considered very significant, since the University of Chicago maintains very selective admission requirements for its Law School program. From this highly selective student body, only about the top five per cent of the students are considered for the Law Review board.

As a member of the Law Review staff, Mr. Bentley and his associates will aid in writing and approving articles to be published in the law journal.

MR. BENTLEY is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Israel I. Bentley of Salt Lake City. He is also the nephew of Joseph T. Bentley, Comptroller of Brigham Young University.

Mr. Bentley served a mission for the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints to North Argentina, and is married to the former Marilyn Ann Brown.

Cougars Sign Top Prep Miler

Brigham Young University track Coach Clarence Robinson announced Tuesday that Tim Danielson, the outstanding high school distance runner in America, would enroll at BYU this fall.

DANIELSON'S 5:59.4 in the mile is the second best prep time ever recorded, bettered only by fabled Jim Ryan. They are the only high school runners to better the four-minute mile. His 8:56.6 two-mile mark is the third best high school time, bettered only by Gerry Link and Rick Riley both of Spokane, Washington.

Danielson lives in Chula Vista, a few miles south of San Diego. He ran on the beaches and in the high mountains during the summer and on weekends during the winter. His two-day workouts have made him one of the world's finest distance runners.

It is likely that Danielson will try the steeplechase in addition to the mile and two mile events where his powerful running should place him among the world's best.
